GIRL'S BODY FOUND; SLAIN SAYS FATHER

prise, I met my cousin there. He had come to spend a vacation. After supper I went to the city hall. There I met the socialist, President J. M. Thompson of Boston Fruit and Produce Exchange, Herman Williams, head of the Commercial, Alex Zimmerman, the only Swedish councilman in the city and a few others. The next morning will take the train to Providence.

Speak Truth and Save Future Generations, Says Helen Keller

"TIME FOR HINTING AT UNPLEASANT TRUTHS IS PAST," SHE TELLS WORKERS FOR BLIND.

The time for hinting at unpleasant truths is past, says Helen Keller, the famous blind girl.

In addressing the convention of workers for the blind in Perkins Institute kindergarten, Jamaica Plain, to-day Miss Keller talked frankly on the subject of prevention of blindness.

"This time has come for us to ask plain questions and to receive plain answers," she said. "Let us insist that the States put into practice every known and approved method of prevention."

Miss Keller spoke as a representative of the Massachusetts Commission for the Blind. The convention is that of the American Association of Workers for the Blind and is the first of the kind ever held in Boston. It will continue through Friday. Delegates are present from all over the country. The Perkins Institute for the Blind, the Massachusetts and the American Association for the Blind are co-operating with the American Association in the conference.

In behalf of the Perkins Institute trustees General Francis H. Appleton delivered an address of welcome at the opening session to-day. Miss Keller then spoke.

By Helen Keller.

In behalf of the Massachusetts Commission for the Blind I welcome in Boston this association of workers for the sightless. The purpose of our convention, which represents every movement to better the condition of the blind, is to secure cooperation between the institutions and individuals who are concerned in our problem. I know that good will come out of our taking counsel together. I feel that we have the fair-mindedness to look at facts squarely, and the courage to set out our policy on the large road which stretches before us.

Our problem is complicated, and has many sides that isolated effort, however real, cannot reach. We must see to it, that the diversity of interests on each side of the blind is not overlooked for the sake of any one part of the work under which.

Have Common End in View.

The workshop, the library of reference books, the home for the aged blind, the nursery, the kindergarten and the school are seen to be parts of a system with one end in view. I realize that there is an end to all this, and that it is to be determined to take to heart all the needs of the blind, and in the name of the blind and of the State whose commission I am to-day to receive.

We have been forced to realize the importance of our system, or lack of system, wherein faithful workers, as well as the blind, are to be trained, and the institution which is to be the best and only one for the blind.
